

Health region boundary not what was expected

Alberta's health system will be reorganized into regional authorities beginning June 1, 1994, but the map released March 31 by Health Minister Shirley McClellan shows Elk Point as part of a far different scenario than that of the proposed region the community's Hospital Board has voted to become part of.

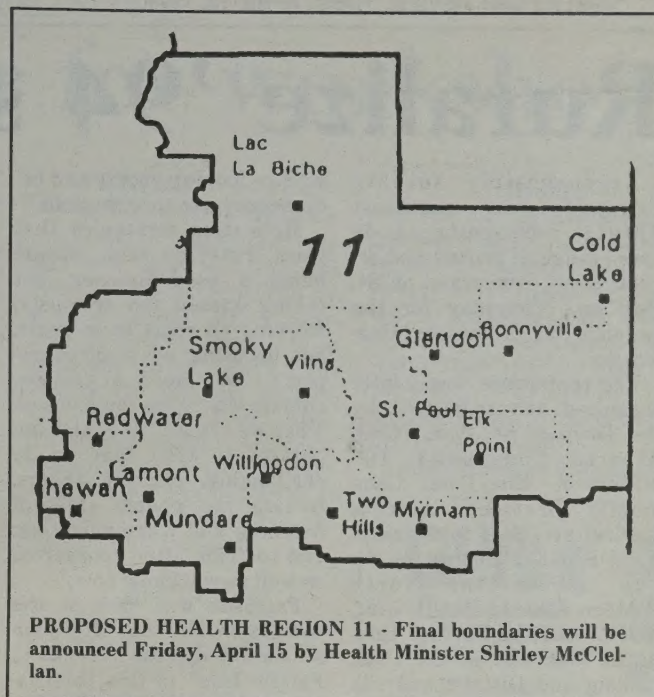

Instead of a region consisting of Vermilion, Wainwright, Islay, Mannville and Elk Point, the release shows Elk Point as part of the proposed Region 11, with Bonnyville, Cold Lake / Grand Centre, Fort Saskatchewan, Glendon, Lac La Biche, Lamont, Mundare, Myrnam, Radway, Redwater, Smoky Lake, St. Paul, Two Hills, Vilna and Willingdon. The 15 regions outlined are much bigger than those suggested by either of the groups Elk Point had considered joining.

Elk Point Hospital Board Chairman John

Mohyluk said the announcement was "a surprise. The government told us to do a survey and find out what areas we should join with. All that work is down the tube." However, Mohyluk is "not disappointed" with becoming part of the northern region. "We could work just as easily with either. There's no problem with that." He noted that the new region consists of, in addition to the 16 hospitals, 4 health units and two private long term care units.

Hospital Administrator Clem Johnson feels "the decision may have been made even before we started [the planning process]." However, the outcome "isn't that bad. It's easier to work with a group you know, and we know everyone in the north group. It's only disappointing that we put in a lot of work with

Sure sign of spring - golf on council agenda

Some things show up every spring: gophers, crocuses, and the golf course on Elk Point Town Council's agenda. Golf and Country Club President Art Britton and member Ernie Poitras visited Council to discuss the possibility of the Town waiving the $3000 lease fee to help the Club cope with the costs of course improvement and upkeep.

Britton said the Club is "really going to put an effort forward" to get grass greens and water at the Golf Course this year. After completion of the work, upkeep is expected to triple because of the increased manpower required.

The lease payments have been in effect approximately 10 years, since the purchase of the land by the Town for $150,000. Half of the purchase price came from grant funding, while the Town paid the balance over three years. At the time of purchase, the Golf Club made the commitment to pay the Town $3000 per year.

Last year, the Golf Club cut grass on the ball diamonds and looked after park facilities in exchange for a portion of the ongoing grant funding. This funding has been cut substantially for 1994. Britton said that the grass cutting had been no problem but that campground upkeep was difficult.

The matter was referred to the Utilities Committee meeting, along with a Committee of the Whole recommendation that Public Works staff look after the Recreation Park for 1994.

Other business coming out of the Committee As A Whole meeting included a recommendation that FCSS operate within a budget of $37,690

TEN YEARS WITH THE TOWN - Steve Penz, who has spent the past ten years working with the Public Works Department of the Town of Elk Point, was presented with a 10 Year Service Award by Mayor Ed Buck to mark the anniversary. Council expressed their appreciation to the dedicated worker along with a hope for many more years with the Town.

Community advisors for RCMP

Elk Point is hoping to join the growing number of Alberta communities with an RCMP Community Advisory Committee. Town Councillor Dan Povaschuk is spearheading the formation of the Committee, and visited Elk Point Chamber of Commerce's April 6 meeting to inform the business community about the concept.

A Community Advisory Committee consists of representatives of a cross section of community residents - seniors, youth, business people, minorities, Town Council and other groups - who meet on a regular basis to discuss their concerns with policing in the community. Povaschuk feels this is "a little better than the talk happening in the coffee shop or at the high school," because the information will be forwarded to the RCMP, who can then take appropriate action.

Povaschuk told the Chamber that an advisory committee was recently set up in Fishing Lake and is already working well, with three major problems identified and receiving action from the RCMP, resulting in a 30 per cent reduction in crime to date.

Ruralize '94 salutes volunteerism

Approximately seventy volunteers from northeast Alberta, representing a diverse range of groups and organizations, converged on St. Paul last Thursday for the Ruralize '94 Volunteer Conference.

The conference was jointly organized and sponsored by the Town of St. Paul FCSS, Alberta Community Development, Elk Point Community Services, Alberta Agriculture, St. Paul Agricultural Society, County of St. Paul FCSS, the North Eastern Alberta Health Unit, ACFA, and the Further Education Councils in St. Paul, Mallaig and District and Elk Point and District. Community volunteer Sid Holthe served as Master of Ceremonies.

Theme of the conference was "balancing families and volunteer commitments." These volunteer commitments "make our communities a better place to live," according to St. Paul Town Councillor Louise deChamplain, who greeted the volunteers on behalf of Council. In his opening remarks, MC Holthe made it clear that not only the community, but the volunteers themselves are helped by their duties, as he quoted from the Bible that "He who does good to others, does good to himself."

Keynote speaker was well known broadcaster and educator Dr. John Paterson, who for nine years was co-host of CJCA's "That's Living" radio broadcast. His opening address dealt with "Turning Negatives to Positives," and showed volunteers how to feel better about themselves, as well as how to cope with change and stress.

"Not that stress is necessarily a bad thing," Paterson hastened to say. "It's gotten me a lot of free travel in the last ten years," as he lectured on the subject. He affirmed that today's problems are real, with "things going on that we don't have any influence over." Adapting to change is not necessarily easy, but can and must be done. A person's perception of a problem is more important than the problem itself, he said, and although society tends to focus on problems and negatives, "we will get more done if we focus on solutions and positives."

Paterson said that the healthiest volunteers are those who have many aspects to their lives and are thus less devastated when things go wrong in one area. He also noted that "you can only dedicate yourself to the problems of others if you like yourself and if you have fun helping others. We're here because we like helping people and because we have specific skills."

Motivation strategies that work, Paterson said, include being a good listener, not taking oneself too seriously, working on short term goals, and focusing on positive aspects. "We need a positive climate where we can focus on what we can do." It is also important to take time to do challenging, exciting things, to tune the 'people' skills of listening and communicating, and to "look after yourselves as well as you know how."

Paterson was back at the conclusion of the afternoon session, to discuss "Trends in Family Life" in this International Year of the Family. "Families are our basic community," he said, and those families have to accept and react to changing times, while making a judgement about what is really important. "Our job is to teach each other who we are, what our positives and strengths are, and what skills are needed to develop them."

Promoting teamwork is important both in family and volunteer circles, Paterson said. "Involve the family in making decisions, get your problems out and get them solved, rather than avoiding them or covering them up."

Families also need goals, and you should "work the short term goals into long term goals."

Fostering a motivational climate is beneficial to all. "Children, parents, in-laws and volunteers all will be motivated only if they feel they are making a difference, and are a part of things."

Paterson felt the best way to face a changing world is "by knowing who we are. The healthiest people are those doing lots of different things, with different support groups." In a world of cut-backs and downsizing, he suggests that "as we phase down and shut activities, we should remember why they were established in the first place."

"Continue to learn," he exhorted the volunteers. "There must be a future. Focus on what we can do, not what we can't. We have the choice to decide what we can do differently to make things work." Fear, he said, "is a poor motivator. We must use our faith to set new goals, and when we meet them, we will feel renewed."

Paterson has great faith in volunteerism, and assured participants that "volunteers are where it's at."

A number of other speakers were also involved in the conference. Jacquie Flood, an employment counsellor from the St Paul area, gave two sessions on "Volunteers - Building Your Future," and outlined the many ways in which skills learned in volunteer capacities, as well as other areas of one's life, can be incorporated into a resume as marketable job skills.

Shirley Trimble, a home economics teacher and 4-H leader from the Edmonton area, conducted two uplifting sessions on "Volunteers - A Special Group of People," and discussed ways to attract volunteers, as well as ways to keep them happy and motivated, and to avoid volunteer burnout.

Lawyer Alayne Sinclair, of Vulcan, spoke on the legal aspects of non-profit and charitable organizations in her session, "Insurance and Liability for Volunteers."

Stephen Montgomery of Alberta Community Development addressed the issue of "Board / Staff / Volunteer Relations." Clarifying roles is important to the success of an organization and the realization of both personal and overall goals.

Merrill Clark, Coordinator of Family Life Education for NEAHU, gave an entertaining look at "Getting ZING Into Your Life When the ZIP is Gone," through stress assessment and management techniques and a variety of exercises. He later kicked off the evening session with "Dreaming The Impossible Dream, or, Family Life Yikes! Did I Volunteer For This?" This second session gave tips on family communication skills, parenting skills and self esteem, good humoredly spiced with anecdotes.

Rev. Jim MacLellan of Elk Point Baptist Church entitled his workshop on the philosophy, synergetics and problems of volunteering 'One Plus One Equals Three." He offered suggestions for soliciting cooperation, dealing with criticism and settling conflict, all topics pertinent to volunteer management.

Participants left the conference with new skills to take back to their groups, and a new, uplifted sense of the importance of volunteers in today's world.

THE GOOSE STORY (The Benefits of Volunteerism)

Next fall when you see geese heading south for the winter flying along in a "V" formation, you might be interested in knowing what science has discovered about why they fly that way. It has been learned that as each bird flaps its wings, it creates an uplift for the bird immediately following. By flying in a "V" formation, the whole flock adds at least 71 percent greater flying range than if each bird flew on its own. (People who share a common direction and sense of community can get where they are going quicker and easier, because they are travelling on the thrust of one another.)

Whenever a goose falls out of formation, it suddenly feels the drag and resistance of trying to go it alone and quickly gets into formation to take advantage of the lifting power of the bird immediately in front. (If we have as much sense as a goose, we will stay in formation with those who are headed the same way we are going.) When the lead goose gets tired, he rotates back in the wing and another goose flies point. (It pays to take turns doing hard jobs - i with people or with geese flying south.) The geese honk from behind to encourage those up front to keep up their speed. (What do we say when we honk from behind?)

Finally (now I want you to get this), when a goose gets sick, or is wounded by gunshots and falls out, two geese fall out of formation and follow him down to help and protect him. They stay with him until he is either able to fly or until he is dead, and they then launch out on their own or with another formation to catch up with the group. (If we have the sense of a goose, we will stand by each other like that.)

Someone once said that angels fly because they take themselves so lightly! There is something to be said for humor. I know that I take myself far too seriously, most of the time, maybe you do too! You and I need to know that since we're here for a long time - we should make it a good time.

Carl Rodgers, in A Therapist's View of Personal Goals, notes that the fifth most important thing that people believe to be valuable about life is their "fun and enjoyment." Now some of you stoics are right now listing the evils of fun. Others of you religious-types have forgotten that "laughter is good medicine!"

Are you fun to live with? I'm glad that my wife doesn't have to answer that publicly! My relationship with her starts a slippery slope downward just about the time I start taking myself too seriously.

I read of a husband who kidnapped his wife and took her to a hotel forty miles away. What would your spouse do if you, unexpectedly bought him or her: flowers, or season's tickets to something, or simply on the initiative of one, organized a babysitter and hustled out for a date?

I need to take myself more lightly, don't you?

Our Past

By Steve Andrishak

A man who was never anywhere near our district but one who nevertheless had a great impact on all our lives, was a man named Thomas Alva Edison. Edison was born in Milan, Ohio on February 11, 1847. He died on October 18, 1931. He was without a doubt the world's greatest inventor. At the time of his death he was credited with 1099 inventions. He also had an additional 3000 patents bearing his name. It is claimed that commerce owes seven trillion dollars a year to enterprises created by Thomas Edison.

Probably Edison's greatest invention was the incandescent electric light bulb. He also invented the Edison cylinder phonograph, the dictaphone, the storage battery, the electric vote recorder, the multiplex telegraph, the ticker tape printer, the carbon telephone transmitter, the motion picture camera and projector, as well as hundreds of other inventions.

Edison received much of his education at home. He was taught by his mother, who had been a school teacher. During his early years, he was a very curious young man. He was always asking questions and he was never satisfied until he came up with the right answers.

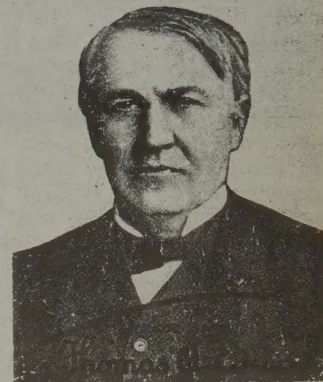

Thomas Edison left home when he was 13. His first job was selling newspapers and confectionery on a train that travelled between Port Huron and Detroit, Michigan. He was well liked by the conductor of the train and was allowed to set up a small laboratory in an express car where he could read, take notes and conduct experiments during his free time. He printed his own small newspaper on this train - getting the news flashes from telegraphers in each town or city that he had passed through. Edison was truly a very enterprising young man, one who was always busy with his experiments.

Thomas Edison became stone deaf at a very young age. His hearing was first impaired after a bout of scarlet fever. Later when one of his experiments set the train's baggage car on fire, he had his ears soundly boxed by the conductor and was fired. The blow on his head further aggravated his hearing. Although totally deaf, he went on to become the world's greatest inventor of all times.

A year or two after he lost his job on the train, he was credited with saving a station agent's child who had wandered on the tracks of an oncoming train. As a reward for his bravery, the station agent offered to teach Edison how to operate a telegraph. Upon completion of his training, he worked as a telegrapher in various towns and cities in the United States.

One of Edison's first inventions was an electric vote recorder. It, however, brought him very little in the way of income. His next invention was a ticker tape printer which he sold for $40,000. With the money he received for this invention, he built a laboratory where he continued his experiments. At this new laboratory he spent hundreds of hours trying to perfect the filament in an incandescent lamp so it would stay lit for long periods of time. He finally hit on the right combination and the incandescent bulb was born in 1879. Another of his famous inventions was the Edison cylinder phonograph which he invented in 1887. The sound recordings on his phonograph record were recorded on a cylinder made out of tin foil. His first recording was "Mary Had A Little Lamb." With additional improvements, millions of Edison phonographs were built and sold throughout the

During Thomas Edison's lifetime he devoted his scientific knowledge to inventing things that would make things easier for ordinary people.

Although severely handicapped because of his hearing impairment, this didn't seem to slow Thomas Edison down. He somehow overcame his handicap and became one of the world's best known inventors - one you could say contributed more to society than any other man.

Although Edison's inventions were all made in the United States, they nevertheless had an impact on our district as well as in the rest of the world. His early cylinder phonograph provided hundreds of hours of entertainment to our early pioneers. His electric light bulb was used in almost every home. The storage battery made it easy to start our cars, and his inventions which perfected both the motion picture camera and movie projector made movies and television possible. His carbon telephone transmitter improved the telephones used in our homes and businesses. All of Edison's inventions improved our way of life. No man has ever made a greater impact on so many lives than did Thomas Alva Edison - the greatest inventor the world has ever known.

Lakers don't foul up at Provincials

The Elk Point Lakers are at their best when the game is on the line.

The foul line, that is.

The Lakers won their third consecutive provincial women's basketball championship by downing the Edmonton All-Sorts 62-60 in the intermediate A finals Sunday in Edmonton.

Edmonton had a brief 12-point lead in the finals, but the Lakers were able to chip away at the lead thanks to some sharp shooting from the foul line.

"We only missed two foul shots the whole game," said Laker Dalane Huber. "That was the big difference in the game for us."

The Lakers were able to ice the victory when Patty Kreskoski hit a foul shot with just one second left to give them a 62-60 lead with only one second remaining.

Edmonton was unable to get off a shot in the final second.

The Lakers had to keep it clean - they had only six players and couldn't afford to have any players in foul trouble.

Elk Point advanced to the finals by winning a game that had a lot of foreshadowing of things to come. They beat the Edmonton All-Sorts 61-60 in the semifinals.

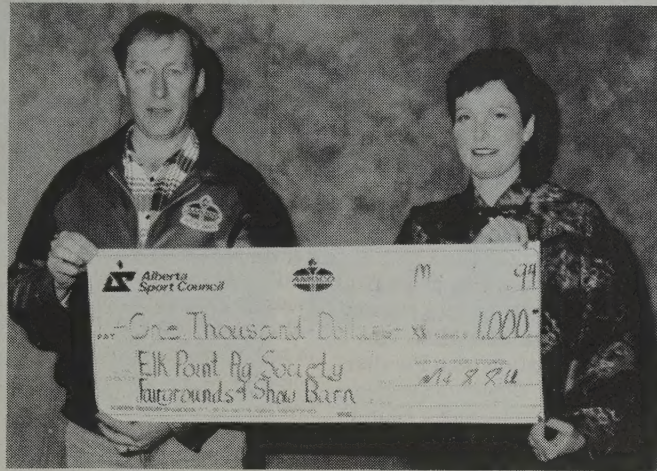

The Lakers opened the tournament by beating Grand Prairie Torch Arches 73-63 Friday night.

They then lost a pair of games on Saturday. They were dumped 76-50 by the Grand Prairie A and W Bears and then lost to the Edmonton Rebels 76-63.

The Rebels, the Torch Arches and the Rebels were all Senior B teams, a category

The Lakers are: Dalane Huber, Sandra Ockerman, Karen Ockerman, Patty Kreskoski, Sandra Myshak and Judy Veer.

SPORT COUNCIL ASSISTS AG SOCIETY - A $1000 Local Sport Development Grant, which will be used toward the purchase of an electronic timing system for barrel racing, was presented to Charlene Baker, representing the Elk Point Agricultural Society Fairgrounds and Showbarn, by Doug Callbeck, representing Amoco Canada, one of the sponsors of the Alberta Sport Council.

STOCK DOGS DO THEIR STUFF - Joe Kapelos of Roy, Washington returned to Elk Point for his second annual Stock Dog Clinic. Fifteen dogs of various breeds spent the weekend learning the skills associated with herding livestock. At left, he encourages Tanya Stone's Border Collie, Jessie, to keep a trio of reluctant sheep on the move, while above, he explains some of the finer points of dog handling to Linda Piotrowski. The Clinic was very well received and very useful to local stock dog owners.

4-H Multi Club news

Dorothea Naber

On March 16, 1994 the Elk Point 4-H Multi Club held a meeting at the F. G. Miller High School. What's News at the Library?

More new books for our readers

Michele Duczek
Librarian

Here are some more of the new books received at the library at the end of March:

Parents Who Love Reading, Kids Who Don't by Mary Leonhardt. (Sounds like a librarian's nightmare!) In this book the author gives suggestions on how to awaken (or reawaken) an interest in reading in your children. A special bonus is a list of kid-recommended reading.

On Your Own by Alexandra Armstrong and Mary R. Donahue provides compassionate advice to help widows cope with the financial and emotional turmoil of losing a spouse. Includes checklists, worksheets and questionnaires.

The Single Mother's Book by Joan Anderson covers everything from legal concerns, children, teenagers, finances, work to romance. The book contains numerous lists and suggestions. It is subtitled: A Practical Guide to Managing Your Children, Career, Home, Finances and Everything Else.

What to Expect When You're Expecting by Arlene Eisenberg, Heidi E. Murkoff and Sandee E. Hathaway answers many questions about planning a pregnancy, experiencing a pregnancy, and having a baby. Each month receives its own chapter. There is also a chapter especially for expectant fathers.

LIBRARY CALENDAR:

Sun. April 24 - Friends of the Library are working an afternoon bingo. Volunteers are needed, to be there at 11 a.m. Anyone interested in helping out can sign up at the Library.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Canadian Army lost more prisoners during the 9 hours of the Dieppe Raid than it did in the 11 months of the 1944-45 North West European campaign. Of the 5000 Canadian soldiers involved in the raid, more than 900 were killed and 1874 taken prisoner, not to mention all those who were injured.

COME, MESSIAH, COME - Elk Point Baptist Church was the scene of an uplifting Easter Sunday presentation of "Come, Messiah, Come" by John Cowan. The musical play was directed by Lois Ramer, and starred Sherry Ozust and Judy Kim as the housemothers of an orphanage whose residents want more than anything else to see the Messiah. The cast included Janelle Ryks, Kyle Ryks, Andrea Ryks, Dominique Primeau, Grace Huffman, Aaron Jurak, Laura Ozust, Kristin Ozust, Issac Peters, Natalie Peters and Tammy Abraham. Above, the children tell Miss Anna (Sherry Ozust, far left) what they think the Messiah will be like. At right is soloist Kyle Ryks, who prays for a family of his own after one of the boys is adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson (Pastor Jim and Mrs. MacLellan) and their daughter. The play was also taped for showing on the local cable television channel.

Health region boundary not what was expected

the south group." Regarding the expanded size of the region, Johnson says that Region 7, which includes the group of hospitals Elk Point had agreed to join with, "is bigger yet - it's a little unwieldy."

The proposed boundaries resulted from submissions to the Health Plan Coordination Project Steering Committee, co-chaired by Dr. Lyle Oberg and Dr. Norm Wagner. The steering committee received hundreds of submissions, and feel that the proposed boundaries reflect community wishes. However, Mrs. McClellan said that the government "wants to hear what Albertans think about the proposals" received from the Steering Committee. Comments on the proposed boundaries should be submitted to the Health Minister, who intends to announce the final boundaries by April 15.

The criteria used to determine the boundaries included: ensuring that boundaries reflect trading areas and health service referral patterns, providing a broad range of services in each region, considering physical barriers and distances, including a regional hospital wherever possible, and using existing, familiar community boundaries where possible.

The Minister stressed that regions are being established for administrative purposes and to ensure that a comprehensive range of health services is available in each region. However, the region structure will not restrict Albertans from using the services of health professionals and facilities of their choice, whether in their region of residence or not.

provincial grant, $9,422 Town share and a transitional amount of $10,000, with the Town to supply an administrative office at no cost. This recommendation was passed, along with a recommendation that the FCSS Board become an autonomous board, responsible for their own accounting, as of June 1, 1994.

Council ratified the sum of $5000 for capital items to be included in the Fire Department's 1994 budget.

Councillor Dan Povashuk explained the concept of the RCMP Community Advisory Committee, which had been explored at the March 21 meeting from which Mayor Buck was absent. The Town has been asked to take a leadership role in getting the committee started, Povashuk said. He later volunteered to represent Council and to explain the concept to other groups in attempt to form a committee.

It was agreed to use the present assessed market value as an upset price for several lots which are designated for tax sale later this year.

Amalgamation of seniors housing came under discussion. The Government has set an April 30 deadline, and wants the MD of St. Paul Foundation to amalgamate their lodges with the self-contained seniors housing in St. Paul, Elk Point, Ashmont and Mallaig, as well as with Rural and Native Housing units. This does not sit well with the Foundation, or with Ashmont, who want their autonomy. The Foundation is making a proposal to look after the self contained units in Elk Point and St. Paul as well as Heritage Lodge and Sunnyside Manor, under the condition that the government still picks up the deficit on self contained units. This proposal awaits approval by the three municipalities involved.

Mayor Buck has proclaimed April 17 to 23 as Volunteer Week in Elk Point.

Formation of a Committee in Elk Point has been approved by Town Council, with Povashuk as the Town's representative. He joins RCMP Cst. Pat Wasylynuk to make up the present "committee of two - we'll build from there," he said. "If people think it's a good idea, we'll fly with it." In addition to the Chamber, Povashuk intends to explain the committee's concept to Elk Point Pioneer Circle seniors at an upcoming meeting. Cst. Wasylynuk is also willing to speak to interested groups, and will attend the next Interagency meeting.

Jonson says "These awards honor some of Alberta's most outstanding teachers for their innovative and effective teaching. These teachers make a major difference. They challenge, motivate and encourage their students. They bring excitement to the classroom. And they do this not only with knowledge and expertise, but with a love of teaching. I'm proud to be associated with these teachers and their outstanding accomplishments."

More than 420 teachers across the province were nominated by students, parents, fellow teachers, principals and superintendents for the awards.
